Case study on the application of mechanistic modeling to comprehensive data on pMHC–TCR interactions

Architecture of a minimal signaling pathway explains the T-cell response to a 1 million-fold variation in antigen affinity and dose

Melissa Lever[a,1], Hong-Sheng Lim[a,1], Philipp Kruger[a,1], John Nguyen[a], Nicola Trendel[a], Enas Abu-Shah[a], Philip Kumar Maini[b], Philip Anton van der Merwe[a], and Omer Dushek[a,b,2]

[a]Sir William Dunn School of Pathology, University of Oxford, Oxford OX1 3RE, United Kingdom; and [b]Wolfson Centre for Mathematical Biology, Mathematical Institute, University of Oxford, Oxford OX2 6GG, United Kingdom

E6630–E6638 | PNAS | Published online October 4, 2016 www.pnas.org/cgi/doi/10.1073/pnas.1608820113